Summary

The vulnerability and living conditions of older people in Addis Ababa

Assessment report (March 2010) Addis Ababa

As a result of factors such as increasing urbanisation, chronic food insecurity, rising prices and the erosion of traditional coping mechanisms and traditional safety nets the lifestyles of poor urban older people are dramatically worsening in Ethiopia. Thus, a city-wide assessment was carried out with the support of HRF¹ and United Nations Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, coordinated by IOM² and HelpAge International and five local non governmental organisations (see fact boxes) that support older people in the city with the overall aim of:

- providing comprehensive information on the vulnerabilities and coping mechanisms of poor urban older people, and

1 Humanitarian Relief Fund

2 International organisation for migration

- exploring options for linkages to existing service and assistance programmes.

The study is intended as a background and guide to government agencies, donors, international agencies and international and national NGOs³ in order to better target assistance programmes and projects.

The study methods included:

- a survey of 1,070 older men (51 per cent) and women (49 per cent) in three groups - living at home, homeless and living in an institution,
- focus group discussions with 294 older men and women,
- interviews with key institutional informants including relevant government agencies, international agencies, NGOs and CBOs⁴, and
- literature reviews.

The study was carried out in collaboration with the Ministry of Labour and Social Affairs and the Addis Ababa Bureau of Labour and Social Affairs, with financial support from the United Nations Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs. It covered a broad range of issues including food and income security, shelter, water and sanitation, health, HIV and AIDS, training, and family and community care.

Key findings brought forward by the study included:

Food security

- More than 88 per cent of homeless older people and 66 per cent of those living at home do not have enough to eat.
- 79 per cent of all older people surveyed eat only once or twice a day.

Water, hygiene and sanitation

- 79 per cent of homeless older people get water by begging.
- 93 per cent of all older people surveyed have no bath or shower.
- 71 per cent of homeless older people use rivers or drains for washing and 29 per cent do not wash.

Shelter

- 82 per cent of homeless older people sleep around churches and mosques and the rest in the streets.
- 68 per cent of home-based older people live in rented houses.

Health

- 78 per cent of all older people surveyed have a chronic health problem.

- 36 per cent of all older people surveyed do not know about the free government health service for poor people.

HIV and AIDS

- 81 per cent of all older people surveyed have heard about HIV and AIDS but 68 per cent do not think older people can be infected with HIV.

Education and training

- About 87 per cent of all older people surveyed have had no training opportunity and 28 per cent said they would participate in training if they had the opportunity.

Family and community support

- 51 per cent of all older people surveyed receive no family support.
- About half of all older people surveyed take part in household activities such as housekeeping and caring for grandchildren, and nearly a quarter have a role in the community.

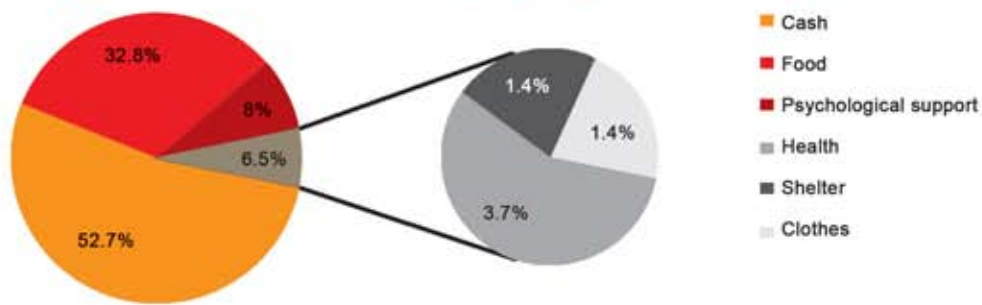

The report makes recommendations for improving older people's food and income security, access to healthcare and living environment. It calls for older women to be given special emphasis.

Priority concerns of older people in Addis Ababa

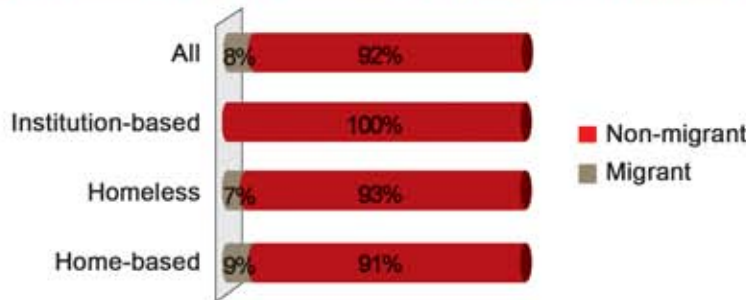

According to the study, the priority concerns for poor older people in Addis Ababa are:

1. food for 57 per cent,
2. shelter for 23 per cent of older people , especially homeless people (45 per cent),
3. health for 15 per cent,
4. clothing for two per cent,
5. psychological support for two per cent and
6. other concerns for one per cent.

Most affected groups of older people in Addis Ababa

Based on the survey, the most affected groups of older people due to their relatively high level of poverty and vulnerability - particularly internal susceptibility and defencelessness to cope with crisis include:

- women
- those without children/family support
- the poorest and destitute - especially homeless people
- oldest of the old - people aged 70 and above
- people who are sick, bed-ridden, impaired and with disabilities
- those without a source of income - those who cannot work, and
- those supporting dependent children and grandchildren.

Existing programmes for older people in Addis Ababa

Government programmes

There are three major government-run care and support giving centres for older people in Addis Ababa under the direction of the Bureau of Labour and Social Affairs. The centres are currently assisting about 94 older people (44 men and 50 women). The government provides free medical care services to poor people, including older persons.

The centres are:

1. Care and support centre for disabled persons: Six older men are currently getting care.
2. Temporary care and support centre for older people: Shelter and feeding services are provided to 67 older people (24 men and 43 women).
3. Temporary care and support for disabled persons: Shelter and feeding services are made available to 21 older people (7 men and 14 women).

Non-governmental organisations (NGOs) and community-based organisations (CBOs)

Four local NGOs (namely Agar Ethiopia, Hospice Ethiopia, Integrated Holistic Approach -Urban Development Programme and St. George's Megbare Senai Association) focusing on older people in Addis Ababa are presently supporting about 469 older people (329 women and 140 men).

They provide older people with essential necessities such as cash, food, clothing, health care, psychological and other support. Another 278 older people are being supported by other NGOs/CBOs such as Eneredada Yaregaweyan Maheber, Kebre Aregawuyan Megbare Senay Dirijit, Yewedeken Aansue Yekomen Erdu and so on.

Wzo Tewabech Yimmam, 70, Addis Ababa, carer

Tewabech, 70, is from Wollo in the Amhara region. She migrated to Addis Ababa many years ago to leave her unhappy marriage behind and start a new life living with her brothers in the capital. Tewabech has only one surviving daughter. This daughter deserted her and left behind three children aged between 8 and 13 years for the 70-year-old to care for. Income generation is a struggle for Tewabech. She used to brew and sell Tella (a traditional Ethiopian drink) for a living but the income she makes is not sufficient for taking care of four people. "I am getting weaker but I continue battling to survive as best as I can for as long as my strength allows me to." For her dilapidated house with a leaky roof so low that she was not able to stand up straight, Tewabech pays two Birr (US$ 0.25) rent per month. During rain the house would flood which has caused her to contract an Asthmatic condition. Tewabech fetches water from the nearby well but there are some kind neighbours who fetch it for her. She pays them 10 cents (US$ 0.007) per bucket for water. Tewabech's life has improved since Agar Ethiopia – one of the local NGOs that participated in the study - stepped in. Tewabech is one of the older people benefiting from Agar's provisions.

"I get food support – for the past six months, they have brought food to my home and I have received rations including oil, spaghetti, lentils, coffee, wheat and sugar. And I get a contribution of 50 Birr (US$ 3.67) per month, and they also renovated my house. Life is so much better."

- One meal per day through community feeding programme
- Renovation of dilapidated houses
- Medical treatment and psycho-social support
- Organization of older women into income generating activities of their choice
- Cash transfers
- Provision of bed and mattresses

Ato Getachew Gebru, 73, Addis Ababa, veteran soldier and pensioner

Getachew is a beneficiary of the Integrated Holistic Approach Urban Development Project – a partner of HelpAge and participant in the study. “As a teenager I was a rebel, I quit school and decided to join the army. I served my country for 21 years before I retired in 1992 at the age of 55 - I have been on a pension ever since. I receive 170 Birr (US $ 12.49) per month which my wife and I try to survive on.”

“Food is the biggest challenge! My pension used to be enough some time ago but these days everything is so expensive, it is hardly sufficient for an entire month. I never had any children. My relatives, siblings and I are on good terms but they are barely making ends meet themselves. I don't pay rent since my brother gave me an extra room in his house.” Getachew has access to a water pipe within the compound and his consumption costs him 3 Birr (US$ 0.22) per month. “Every year, come winter, life was tough. I remember a time when my wife and I had to sleep on the dirt floor. It would turn into mud when rain leaked in through the roof. Besides, the house would flood and we were forced to take out whatever the rain would bring in.”

“IHA UDP has changed my life. They renovated my house. I am no longer cold because of rain and flooding and cleaning has become easier. I also get food support. From Monday to Friday I go to the center for older people nearby for lunch. They give us clothes and blankets. The biggest gift from IHA UDP is the medical coverage. I have blood pressure and must take pills daily.” An expense of 75 Birr (US$ 5.51) per month that Getachew wouldn't be able afford if not for IHA UDP.

Fact box

Integrated Holistic Approach Urban Development Project

(Local non-governmental participant of study)

- Founded in 1989
- A local NGO consisting of community-based organisations – namely specifically Addis Hiwot Integrated Sustainable Development Organization (AHISDO) and Community-based Integrated Sustainable Development Organization (CBISDO) which work with 44 and 174 older people respectively.

Services provided to older beneficiaries:

- 'Food on Foot' programme for the older people who are confined to bed
- Renovation of shelters
- Occasional provision of clothes and blankets
- Healthcare
- One meal per day at the day care centre
- Recreational facility

Major Recommendations

Food insecurity and income generation:

- Design and implement programmes such as self-employment or income generation schemes for the older people who are capable and willing to engage.
- Initiate humanitarian support for those poor older people no longer able to work, to ensure access to sufficient amounts and appropriate quality of food.
- Encourage, organise and provide skills training and start-up capital to enable poor older people to engage in micro and small scale enterprises according to their capacity and skills.
- Facilitate access to necessary inputs like land and credit services.

Health and wellbeing:

- Promote the special health needs of older people; seek ways of improving the existing procedures like Kebele ID requirement for accessing free health services by older people.
- Initiate the development of guidelines, standards and norms of health care and rehabilitation services for older people.
- Support programmes promoting healthy and active ageing including reduction of behavioural risk factors.
- Ensure that older people are taken into consideration and given due attention in HIV/AIDS programmes.

Shelter and living environment:

- Initiate programmes that will provide older people, especially the destitute and homeless ones, with access to shelter.
- As well as renovation of houses for poor older people, include provision of better sanitation and hygiene facilities.

Awareness raising on aging and rights of older people:

- In order to change the community's attitude towards older people, intensive and continual awareness raising work needs to be done.
- Encourage and support the mainstreaming of older people's issues in preparing plans, designing and implementing programmes.
- Undertake awareness raising activities that can enable older people to understand their rights.
