Acknowledgements

The Service Directory Older People's Association (OPAs) from the provinces of Battambang and Banteay Meanchey is developed with the aim to provide necessary information to all OPAs so they can engage in networking, exchange of information, sharing of best practices and peer support.

This Service Directory exists in English and in Khmer version and includes a listing of OPAs in 80 villages, information about OPA membership, environment/climate and contacts of organizations working in these villages. HelpAge International - Cambodia strongly hopes that the OPAs Service Directory will not be only a valuable tool for the OPAs in promoting mutual support, building advocacy alliance and raising voices but will be as well an interesting source of information for the communities and development partners.

The OPAs Service Directory is the result of exhaustive work and remarkable collaborative efforts among the organization team members. The overall guidance was provided by Annie Nut, Country Programme Manager. Régis Binard, the consultant assigned to the development of the material took the lead in the design, coordination and arrangement of the material. Kate Pagsoligan from COSE (Coalition of Services of the Elderly), Phillipines seconded to HelpAge International – Cambodia has contributed with the compilation and quality check of the data. Sok Touch, Kov Meng, Say Borun, Bun Sampov, Men Samphoan, Sin Sokhan, Klot Phally, Kim Sarann, Nuon Chantha have contributed to the meticulous collect of information from the fields.

This work would not have been possible without the support of the European Union, the Korea International Cooperation Agency, the Kadoorie Charitable Foundation and HelpAge Korea.

HelpAge International – Cambodia hopes in the near future to secure sufficient resources to develop a second edition of the Service Directory with an additional 60 more OPAs.

Introduction

“There is no subject of greater importance than the ageing of the population and provision of social protection for older people. It affects the very nature of our societies and concerns not only older people, but all sections of the population.”

*Jopseph E. Stiglitz,
Nobel Prize Winner and Former Chief Economist of the World Bank*

In Cambodia, the proportion of older people in the population is steadily growing. Longer life expectancy and falling fertility rate are the main contributing factors to the age transition.

Today, adult population aged 60 years and older accounts for 6.3 percent of the population as reported in the census that was carried out in 2008. The share of older women is unusually larger at 58 percent of the elderly population due to the legacy of decades of conflicts.

By 2030, the number of older persons is forecasted to reach 1.1 million persons, with 10 percent of its population expected to be over 80 years old. By 2050, the proportion of older people will increase to 26 percent.

The rise of ageing population will pose a number of critical questions and challenges. Inevitably at one stage of life, older people will not be in the measure to maintain their autonomy. Older people will need health care, and other social assistance to sustain a dignified life

- for the family members it implies ensuring the responsibility to provide and care for their old parents
- for the state it implies to put in place social protection measures to respond to a greater demand for old-age support systems

There is a need for engaging adult older population in the development process to prepare an ageing society in time.

“Older people are an asset to their families, communities and to society. Their contribution – as carers, advisers, mediators, mentors and breadwinners – is invaluable”.

HelpAge International

HelpAge has been working in Cambodia since 1992 in the provinces of Battambang and Banteay Meanchey. HelpAge supports communities in establishing village-based Older People's Associations (OPAs). They serve as a mechanism that ensure a safety net for older people and help to revive social bonding and mutual help that have nearly vanished from the Khmer culture as a result of decades of conflicts and hardships.

The primary purpose of the OPA is to improve :

- the dignity and quality life of elders
- encourage and motivate older people to help each other by providing a forum to discuss their problems, develop solutions and celebrate important events
- encourage and promote community support for vulnerable older people

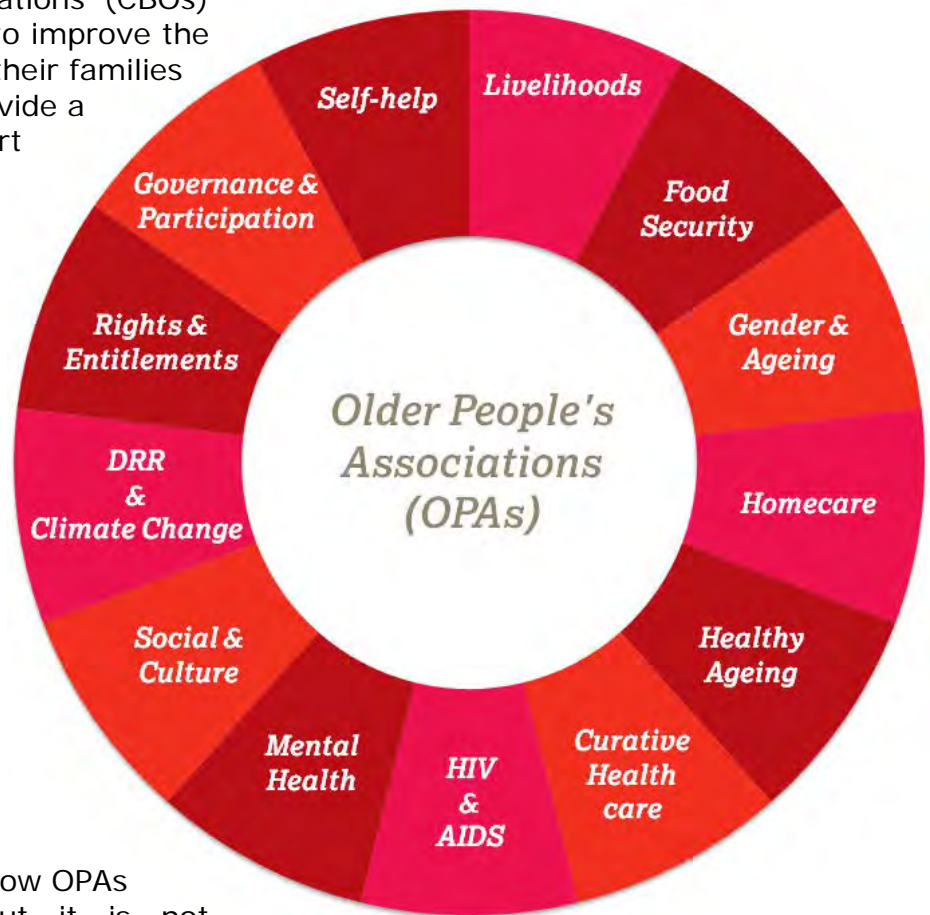

The OPA mechanism has proven successful. It is culturally acceptable and is functional. The OPAs are a tool for overall participatory community development, a platform for the vulnerable and excluded to voice their needs. Through OPAs, older people can gain better access to public services, thus contributing to Royal Government of Cambodia's social protection and poverty alleviation efforts.

The Royal Government of Cambodia has acknowledged and fully recognized OPAs as one of the grassroots Community Based Organisations providing a safety net for vulnerable people.

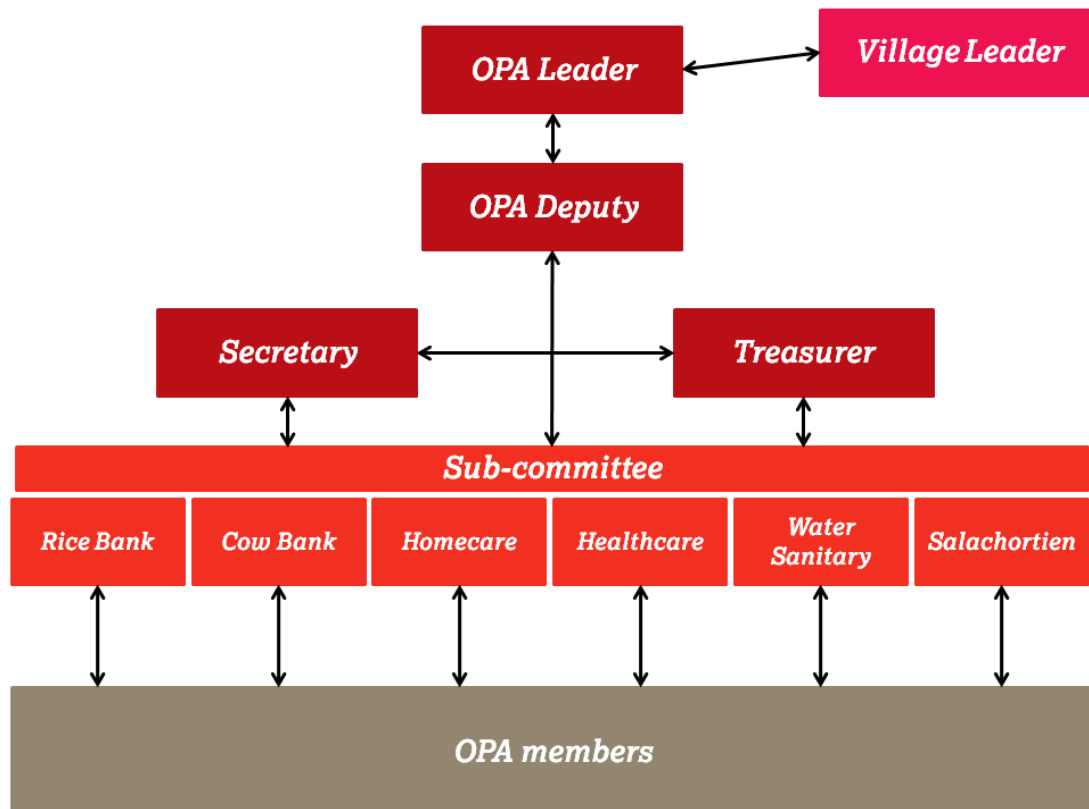

To date HelpAge has directly supported the communities to form 140 OPAs comprising 120,000 older members.

Older People's Associations (OPAs) are Community Based Organizations (CBOs) of older people, which aim to improve the well-being of older people, their families and communities. OPAs provide a mechanism for social support as well as for delivering services.

To be effective, each OPA must decide how to structure and govern itself. The minimum structure is to have an OPA Committee of at least four members elected by members to lead the OPA (OPA Leader, OPA Deputy, Secretary and Treasurer).

The diagram below shows how OPAs are usually structured but it is not necessary for all OPAs to be structured in this way.

Battambang Province

The Directory records 43 villages in Battambang Province where Older People's Associations (OPAs) are active, representing close to 5,000 members.

The 43 OPAs are distributed in Banan, Ek Phnom, Muong Ruessei districts.
